WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Inauguration Ceremonies And Grandeur Thereof.

Thirty Thousand Militia in Line ---Inaugural Address Very Brief.

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.]

Washington, D. C. Mar. 8, 1895.

The inauguration of another chief executive of the United States has become a part of history and your correspondent will bear witness that it was a National Inauguration in every sense.

I have seen many parades go back and forth on historic Pennsylvania avenue, but this one I think, excelled them all in pomp of drum majors, length and orderliness of procession and in the numbers and enthusiasm of the throngs of spectators. The President's salute of twenty one guns from the Navy yard and a like number from Fort Myer and from Fort Washington were still booming when the procession began to pass the reviewing stand.

There were about thirty thousand men in line, six thousands regulars, twelve thousand National Guards and two thousand cadets. There were over fifty Civic organization in the parade. The presence of Porto Ricans and Filipinos added to the picturesque of the scene.

The President left the White House at eleven o'clock and proceeded up the Avenue to the Capitol accompanied by a troop of his own Rough Riders, those who had been with him in Cuba. They were a fine looking group of men. When the President reached the Capitol he proceeded at once to the marble apartment known as the President's room. Here the floral decorations were elaborate. The mantle and windows were banked with roses and orchids and the bronze bust of McKinley was surrounded by flowers and a draped flag. Accompanied by the members of the cabinet, he went to the senate where at twelve o'clock Vice-President Fairbanks took the oath of office, and made a short address. The floor of the Senate was crowded with Senators, Representatives, members of the diplomatic Corps and Presidential party. The galleries in which every seat had been reserved for the families of the President, Vice-President, the Speaker of the House, and of Senators and members, were packed, even the steps which were utilized as seats by the observers.

After his address and a prayer by the Chaplain Vice-President Fairbanks administered the oath of office to the Senators elect. At the conclusion of these ceremonies the President took his stand on the Inaugural platform, facing the great crowd that had assembled on the plaza which extends from the Capitol to the gold-domed Library of Congress. On his right sat the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court who administered the oath of office and the President then delivered his Inaugural address. It was very short taking not more than ten minutes for its delivery and owing to the immensity of the crowd could be heard only by those who sat in his immediate vicinity. Immediately after his address the President returned to the President's room in the Senate and after congratulations and a few words with his friends he re-entered his carriage and was driven rapidly to the White House.

The waving of flags and cheering met him on all sides as he proceeded at a swift trot up the Avenue and he was kept bowing from the right to left, acknowledging the enthusiastic salutes the entire way. After a luncheon to which a number of guests were invited but which was really a hurried meal he took his place in the enclosed stand which was in the centre of the "Court of History" and from this point reviewed the procession which filed past him for three hours. Stands lined both sides of the Avenue and obscured Lafayette Park and even the White House, but in order to make the scene as picturesque as possible the stands had been painted and draped with flags and statues from the St. Louis Exposition were placed on especially prepared pedestals about the "Court." The Avenue as far as the eye could see was a mass of humanity. In the centre of the board clean street soldiers, scouts, the national guard, West Point and Annapolis cadets, civic clubs and bands played stirring music as the gorgeous drum majors performed their tricks which stirred the small boy along the route. On either side of the parade the spectators were blocked and packed advantageously and working into more advantageous positions or changing from side to side to rest the weary feet which held them for six or eight hours.

The stands arranged with seats of the soft side of planks and roofed over were filled for the most part and every window along the Avenue, some of which rented for a hundred dollars each, was filled with spectators.

At 12 o'clock p. m. the music of the great Marine band which played in the pension building for the ball ceased and the immense throng slowly dispersed. The President had departed some time before having made with Mrs. Roosevelt, the Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks a circuit of the huge enclosure and after resting for a time in the gallery, from which he could look down upon the crowd and listen to the music. Every person except the Presidential party and the police officers admitted to the pension office paid five dollars and for those who could not celebrate to that amount the Inaugural committee had provided three car loads of fire works which were discharged from a point of vantage. On Monday a concert at popular prices in the Pension building was held enabling those who could not attend the ball to see the floral decorations of the building and to hear portions of the music furnished the dancers.

BURGLARY NEAR SHREVE

Evan C. Miles Lays In Wait for Suspected Burglar, Who Arrives in Due Time.

On last Saturday night Herbert Robinson, a young man twenty years old, was caught in the act of burglarizing the store of Evan C. Miles, at the crossroads between Fordsville and Shreve, and nearer the latter place.

Miles had been missing articles of small value for some time, and on this night he concealed himself in the store room and awaited results. A short time after dark young Robinson attempted to enter the building at the front door by means of a special key, which he had been using. Miles attempted to seize Robinson, but the latter escaped and fled at a rate of speed that would have nonplussed a jack-rabbit.

Robinson confessed his guilt the next day, intimating that others were connected with him.

The grand jury has not indicted him but is investigating the matter. He has not yet been taken into custody.

Smallpox in Grayson County.

Dr. G. W. Arms, health officer of Grayson county, reports six cases of smallpox in Caneyville in the family of Arch D. Romans, who keeps a hotel in that town. Those affected with the disease are Mr. Romans, his father, wife and three children. The disease was contracted by the family through a negro woman who came from Central City about three weeks ago and was cooking in the family of the Romans. The hotel is under strict quarantine and every precaution is used to keep the disease from spreading.

KILLED BY CARS.

Former Marshal and Bartender at Horse Branch.

Fell From the Top of a Freight Train and Was Horribly Mangled.

While riding on a box car of a freight train late Sunday evening near Millwood, Ky., a station on the main line of the I. C. railroad about sixteen miles from Horse Branch, Arch James, a resident of Horse Branch, slipped from the top of the car and received injuries which later proved fatal. James was an acquaintance of several of the workmen on the freight train and was enjoying a trip on the cars with some of them. The car careened slightly to one side and caused James' foot to slip which threw him headlong from the top of the car. He struck on his head and before he could recover his balance had fallen under the wheels of the train. One of his arms was severed from his body and both of his legs were cut off, one just above the knee and the other just below.

The injured man was taken to Millwood and was immediately given medical attention. He lived only a short time, however.

James was a young man, being only about twenty-six years old. He was bartender at a saloon at Horse Branch. He was married but his wife died about six months ago. No children survive him.

MURDERER CAPTURED.

Bob Porter, Who Killed Another Negro, in Custody--Due to Sheriff Keown's Vigilance.

Sheriff Cal P. Keown will leave in a few days for Danville, Ill., to bring back Bob Porter, who killed another colored man at Echols the 23rd of last July. The Sheriff has been vigilant in his efforts to locate Porter, and it was at his instigation that he was arrested and detained at Danville.

It will be recalled that Porter killed his man without apparent provocation, yet he has never been indicted, nor has there ever been a warrant issued for his arrest, but the Sheriff, exercising his prerogative as a peace officer, has procured his arrest, and his eventual return to the scene of the crime, where he will be tried for the same.

FEMALE WEAKNESS IS USUALLY PELVIC CATARRH. Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh Wherever Located.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Listen to What Dr. Hartman Proposes to Do for You Without Charge.

Doubtless hundreds of thousands of women all over the United States have seen Dr. Hartman's offer in the papers—how he has undertaken to treat every woman suffering with any form of female disease who will write to him, free of charge.

To those who have not heard of this it may be said that Dr. Hartman is a physician and surgeon of great renown in medical circles, especially in the treatment of those diseases which women alone have to bear.

He has arranged to answer all letters that are sent to him from women troubled with any form of female weakness, free of charge, giving the benefit of knowledge which has cost him forty years to accumulate.

The medicines he prescribes are within the reach of any woman, and she can get them at any drug store.

All she is required to do is to send her name and address, together with her symptoms, duration of sickness and age. Address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Betsy Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who endorse Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:

"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep."—Helen Rolof.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, writes as follows:

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman today."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 28 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

GENERAL NEWS.

JERUSALEM TO-DAY.

Old Sites of the Holy City Rapidly Disappearing.

Great Obstacle to Study of Ancient Localities is Erection of New Houses.

Harry Gordon, who has returned from a six months' tour of the Holy Land, and who also was present at the last production of Oberammergau some time ago, gives the press the following:

"The view of Jerusalem is the history of the world," so wrote Disraeli early in the 19th century; and he added: 'It is more common—it is the history of the earth and of heaven.' And to-day in Jerusalem an epitome of all the nations is presented, and a strange world is to be studied within the walls of Jerusalem.

"The walls are still a glorious fact and most impressively do their ruddy tawny bastions and embattled summits tower up against the deep blue of the sky, as we descend the Valley of Hinnom, thence to ascend the Jaffa Gate, where is the only break in the mighty wall—that ugly rent torn betwixt the Tower of David and the Jaffa Gate to allow the cavalcade of Kaiser William to enter. But, in spite of this rent, the scene of the Jaffa Gate is full of life and color. Bread and cake and fruit sellers in colored robes are clustered around its pillars, and under its vaults Jews in round flat hats bound with fur and in purple robes of velvet and silk, are hustled by ragged Bedouins in gray and brown patched robes. Turkish officials in the regulation fez, halt before a rugged pile of pomegranates at the arch.

"A Jew in yellow robe, with black velvet hat passes in as some Persians in red sheep-skin hustles past a lemon seller, who is crouched by a pile of yellow fruit smoking his hubble-bubble regardless of trade. Negro porters in gray rags elbow women, veiled and unveiled, and makes way for an ass, led by a shepherd in brown robes with a half-veiled woman seated on its back.

"A continuous throng comes and goes everywhere, ever chatting and shouting—no two figures alike or in color. Women in rich garments and girls with open-breasted robes, balancing water basins on their heads. And inside the Gate rises up the massive or the solid Tower of David. Turkish soldiers are patrolling near for just beyond is the citadel. But let us turn up the narrow way to the left. Lying at the corner of a great house is the naked body of a poor wretch—a brown piece of sacking thrown over his loins; he waits alms, but makes no sign. A Roman priest passes by then; a Greek priest, and a woman, all veiled, clothed in white from head to foot save her black veil then a man in a brown robe on a little mule.

"Such is the ever varying, quick, eager, shifting crowd, so full of color; so ever changing as we penetrate doubling on our steps, down through the busy David's street on into Mohammedan street where dark shadows are thrown by the arches and the brilliant colors are softened by the shade. The stranger can soon learn to thread his way amid the narrow, tortuous streets that intersect Jerusalem. The city is so small that, lose one's self as one easily may repeatedly, the outer walls must soon be reached. If we enter by the Jaffa gate on the west, abroad temple area lies to the east and soon blocks the route along the eastern walls, and so as we bear to the north, a continuous narrow thoroughfare is stuck, below which, far down beneath the accumulation of ages, runs the pavements of the 'way of pain' trodden by the feet of Christ.

"There is a spot where today the actual pavement may be seen, but to get to it once must enter into a house and descend many steps; and then, some twenty feet below the present street, are seen the broad level slabs of the Roman pavement. One of the Sisters of Zion, to whom the house belongs, points out the squares of a game scratched on one flat stone, and this, being near a low arch, suggests that a good deal of waiting had to be endured here, and so the weary waiters had scratched out this plan of a game to while away their time. There is a niche as for a figure, or a seat at the arch, and a portcullis like grove slit in the natural rock. This is supposed to be, and on fair grounds for the supposition the site of Pilate the Governor's house, and so the latter arch in the street above is called the "Ecce Homo" Arch.

The principal obstacle in Jerusalem to the study of holy and historic sites is the passion for building over these sires, and to-day that evil is increasing. Every section of the Christian church—Russian, Greek, Armenian Rome (with all its various sections), Coptic and the various Protestant nations—is trying to secure some historic or legendary site; and this secured, up goes a building, destroying the natural configuration of the site, absolutely obliterating the association that the scene would call up if left untouched. Well may a modern writer exclaim, even of St. Helena. "What right had even the Ancients to build a church here?"

To-day the Russians are most aggressive. In 530 A. D., Theodosius counted twenty-six churches on the Mount of Olives, but they were not such mighty buildings as the Russians are erecting there to-day, with all the glare of colored and gilded domes. And on the summit of the Mount rises a great high tower that dominates the whole country round. While bathing in the Red Sea I looked up and there, in the sky as it were, was this peaked Russian tower. These new buildings on the Mount of Olives are all additional to the great square of Russian buildings outside the wall on the Jaffa road.

"The last place to have been walked around is that little hill just outside the Damascus Gate, still called 'Golgotha' by the Jews. It is no longer possible to climb this little hill and look back to the east on the Mount of Olives, and the way to Mount Zion on the Southwest. This site, where Gordon claimed that Christ suffered, was almost, until today, free from all building, as in his age and from superstitious right and false legend. The Gordon Tomb beneath it is still unspoiled, although the custodian has a little house in the garden. One pays a small fee to look into this rock-cut tomb and be it the tomb of Christ or not, it is indeed a

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. Kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poison enters the blood and attacks the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away call by call.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and ceasing pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

tomb of that period, beneath the hill that answers so minutely to the description of the hill of Calvary."

The production of this great Biblical history will be looked upon as one of the dramatic events of the season, and we bespeak for the "Holy City" one of the banner houses seen here in years.

REMARKABLE EATER.

Englishman Has Most Marvelous Record of Any Man Alive.

[Chicago Tribune.]
Colonel Newnham Davis, of London has the most marvelous gastronomic record of any man in the world.

Colonel Davis has eaten in every land under the sun. There is not a country in the world he has not visited. From the wilds of India to the exclusive cafes in London, from hospitable Japan to the battle ground of the Transvaal, he has paid particular attention to the culinary ability of each country.

His records extends from a $100 per plate dinner in London to a 10 cent quick lunch in the United States. He has devoured quadrupeds from a horse to a fat puppy; practically all the fowl of the air and the fish of the sea have been on his bill of fare at one time or another. He has even eaten that hated living thing which is classed under neither of these heads—the snake. And none has arisen to dispute his title of the world's most remarkable diner.

Colonel Davis talks as an expert now on the subject of gastronomy. If there is any peculiar delicacy under the sun he hasn't tasted he doesn't know about it. The Colonel says his most remarkable meal was eaten in Japan, the land of flowers and the home of fish eaters. It was a fish that played the most conspicuous part in this strange meal.

"It was in Tokyo, I believe," said Colonel Davis. "I was dining with a Japanese family, and almost the first dish brought on was a queer covered affair. The servant removed the cover, and, lo and behold, a live fish wriggled and flapped inside. The fish was brought in in this condition to prove it was alive.

"It was killed before my eyes and I was expected to eat part of it the way it was—uncooked. I did so, too. It was of a peculiar taste, but not unpleasant. The fish, it appears is of the species commonly eaten in the Mikado's kingdom without being cooked owing to its palatable taste in its raw state.

"The Japanese are wonderful cooks. It is too bad we cannot take lessons from them in the preparation of food so that it will tickle the palate.

"The Japanese have one other dish of a peculiar nature. It is a sort of a consomme. It is an absolutely clear soup which appears to be merely water, but one taste convinces a person it has been skillfully made of some kind of meat.

"Next to Japan, China offers the greatest array of marvelous dishes. Eggs 40 and 50 years old, which have been buried for those periods in a clay, are held to be the greatest delicacies in the empire. The longer the egg is interred the finer it is supposed to be. The Chinese egg that is sent to the table is almost black and its flavor reminds one of an over-ripe egg that has been hard boiled and then served.

"I have eaten many disagreeable things in China—merely for the experience, of course. Among these were sea slugs, a sort of oyster, and fattened puppy. The most disagreeable, however, was a bit of cold pig's liver wrapped around a prune. There was no escape for me from eating this, though I tried to avoid it. My neighbor at the table picked up the liver and the prune with his chop sticks and held them before my lips. I could do nothing but open my mouth and allow the combination to be inserted because it is considered a single honor in the celestial kingdom to have a fellow guest offer you a dainty morsel in the aforesaid manner.

"The fattened puppy tasted something like a baked suckling pig. The puppy is fed on rice and milk for several months before it is killed to be eaten, and the flesh is tender and quite palatable.

"In Africa—the Transvaal—I have lived on trek cattle, hedgehogs and other things. I have no reason to complain of these, however, for I was hungry at the time, and although they tasted peculiar I ate them with a relish.

"I have often eaten fried serpent in Africa. This did not appeal to me, however. It tasted something like an eel of an inferior oily sort.

"Roumania is the only country where I have tried bear. The meat of an animal from which I had a steak was much like the stringy flesh of an ox of questionable age. I believe the best bear meat is that from a small species which inhabits Cashmere and which feeds mostly on wild fruit.

"Turkish restaurants were more acceptable than a person would be led to believe. I never ate in a private Turkish family, but while in that country learned the ways of the people. One of their most noted dishes is the joint of a lamb boiled to shreds and the small pieces eaten with the fingers.

"Horse flesh I have eaten in South Africa, to return to that country again. It was at Ladysmith this was served, because there was nothing else. The flesh of the horse is unsatisfactory, as it is sweet and tough. Our men at Ladysmith became tired of it.

Masonic Apron Washington Wore.

What is considered one of the most interesting possessions of Masonry in the world is the property of the lodge of Leroy, Ill. It is the apron worn by Gen. George Washington, first President of the United States, when engaged in the ceremonies of the order. The apron is one of white silk and the embroidery of innumerable emblems of the order illustrates needle-work talent of a high order. It was given to the organization by a member, C. A. Whitehead.

Almost as interesting is a letter written April 4, 1865, by John Walcott, who received the apron from his grandfather, Oliver Walcott, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

This letter states that the apron was brought to the United States by the Marquis de Lafayette and presented to Gen. Washington.

Oliver Walcott was the senior warden of the Masonic lodge of which Washington was a member, and after the death of the latter the apron was given to Mr. Walcott. It has since been handed down from generation, until it finally reached the lodge room in Leroy.

According to the Walcott letter, the apron is about 155 years old.

PARASOL HANDLE

Sprouted And Has Grown Into a Respectably Sized Tree.

The handle of an old parasol, which has taken root in the ground and grown into a tree in the yard of Joseph A. Wisner, in this city, is attracting attention from naturalists and men of science, says a dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer from a Pennsylvania town. Incredible as it may seem, there is a score of reputable residents who testify to the truthfulness of the statement that the tree really sprang from the parasol handle. But for fear of vandals the curiosity would be transplanted to one of the public squares.

In 1865 a parasol was presented to Miss Susan Suey. Miss Suey afterward married Jakob Kohler and still resides in this county. She kept the parasol until it became useless as a sunshade and stored it in an attic. More than 15 years ago she resurrected the handle and used it as a fly-bush handle at Emig's Grove Camp. After a fire which wiped out the camp the handle became part of the salvage.

In the following spring Mrs. Kohler utilized the handle to support a rose in her door yard. Several months afterward it was discovered that it had taken root and sprouted. It became an object of curiosity for the entire countryside, and people came miles to see it. One night some one attempted to carry it off, and succeeded in tearing away a number of branches. About this time Mrs. Kohler moved away from York, and she entrusted the "parasol tree," as it had begun to be called, to the care of Mr. and Mrs. Wisner, who have carefully transplanted it to their own yard, and have nourished it ever since.

While this part of the story is not as reliably vouched for as is that of the sprouting parasol handle itself, it is asserted that on the night of Mr. Kohler's death the metal spring which had remained in the handle throughout all these years fell off.

The handle continued to thrive, and is now quite a respectable young tree. Each summer it bears beautiful little star-shaped flowers, something like forget-me-nots, and berries. The latter never ripen, but shrivel before maturity.

QUEER FANCIES

Of Suicides Lured To Death By Fascinating Niagara Falls.

[Niagara Falls Cor., St. Louis Republic.]

Every year persons end their lives in the rapid-running waters of Niagara. The record goes far back, and includes many strange cases. Ann Hall, 34 years old, committed suicide 50 years ago by going over the waterfall. She was a bride of but a week.

Each suicide appears to have a different plan. A party of visitors were enjoying the scene from the Third Sister Island on August 10, 1884, when they were startled by a man emerging from the bushes. He was clad only in light underwear. Tossing articles of jewelry to them he leaped into the boiling waters close by. He was Herman Wuttke, of Buffalo, and his act was due to despondency.

There have been suicides at night as well as by day. C. V. Sweet, of Jersey City, on August 31, 1885, strolled out from his hotel to enjoy Niagara by moonlight. At Prospect Point he found a man's coat, and papers in the pocket indicated it belonged to Chauncey Hough, of Batavia. A week later Mr. Hough's body was taken from the whirlpool.

Edwin Miles and R. H. Trebor, minstrels, strolled to Prospect Point on November 16, 1888, to view the falls.

"I wonder," said Mr. Trebor, "how far a boat could come down those rapids and not go over the fall."

"Say," called a stranger standing by as they passed, "I know how far a boat could go, but I will show you how far I can go."

With that the man buttoned up his coat, pulled his hat down on his head, threw away a cigar, and, leaping upon the parapet wall, dived headlong into the current, a few feet back from the brink of the American Fall, over which he was quickly swept. He was Charles Champion, of Buffalo, 24 years old, who had had no trouble, so far as his friends knew.

Niagara was startled September 10, 1891, by a double suicide, but the incidents had no relation to each other. Walter Haywood, of Buffalo, leaped into the river from Luna Island, while Mrs. Bessie Laders, of New York, entered the river from Prospect Park. Haywood was financially unfortunate. He left this verse:

Here poor, unfortunate Haywood lies;

Nobody laughs, nobody cries;

Where he's gone and how he fares Nobody knows and nobody cares.

In her trip to eternity Mrs. Bessie Laders had a helping hand outstretched to her at the brink of the falls, the incident being one of the most tragic ever known at Niagara.

R. L. Heim, of Philadelphia, saw the woman come down the river. Without thought of the danger he climbed over the wall and waded out six feet to a point only 10 feet from the brink of the American fall.

Three times he grabbed her clothing, but as many times did she pull away. She was swept over the brink. It was with difficulty that Heim regained the shore.

Clerks in the postoffice and express offices occasionally have strange experiences with persons bent on suicide. In 1891 a man called at the American Express office and sent his watch and money to Louisville. The agent suspected the man and the police arrested him. He admitted he was bent on going over the falls.

The body of a woman found floating in the lower river May 16, 1892, was identified as Miss Emma C. Aupperle, of Philadelphia. Her friends said that once while chatting she said:

"If I ever commit suicide I will go to Niagara. I selected the spot two years ago when I was there."

"It is all for that woman," wrote Noble Kenny, of Buffalo, before he went to death from Prospect Point. "It is home trouble," called fifteen-year-old Ethel Lynman to Policeman Burch, as she was wading out in the river at Luna Island. The officer caught her.

Jennie Newell threw herself into the river May 28, 1893, but was rescued.

"Don't pull me out, boys; let me

The best disinfectant of all is sunlight. It destroys by its very brightness all sorts of germs and at the same time helps the growth of plants and animal life. Doubtless all have noticed that mould grows during the night and in dark, damp cellars. Bright sunlight quickly destroys germs, mould or other organisms. That is why it is best to let the sunlight into your houses for its purifying influence.

At the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce, chief consulting surgeon, started experiments, some three years ago, with the Finson light in conjunction with the X-ray in the treatment of diseases. He got excellent results therefrom, and was among the first to adapt this remarkable cure to many cases which it was formerly supposed must of necessity be treated by the knife.

Not only is Dr. R. V. Pierce notable for his surgical achievements at his hospital in Buffalo, but nearly a third of a century ago he discovered certain roots and herbs which were nature's remedies, and succeeded in putting them up in a form that would be easily procured and ready to use. This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It maintains the patient's nutrition by enabling him to eat, retain, digest and assimilate nutritious food. It overcomes gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion, and in this way fever, night sweats, headaches, etc., are done away with. It fortifies the body against the germs of consumption, grip and malaria. It builds up the tissues and puts on healthy flesh.

Those desiring to know something about the body in health and disease, also medicine and surgery, without technicalities, should read the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," which can be had for 3 cents in one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound book. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

go," she cried.

Few Niagara suicides created such a sensation as that of Peter Schemm, a Philadelphia brewer, September 13, 1898. He had driven about the reservation and on the return from Goat Island deliberately leaped from the bridge into the rapids.

A reward of $1,000 was offered for the recovery of his body. The lower river was watched as never before. It was surprising the number of bodies found, but none was identified as that of Schemm.

Hippolyte Schneider, a Frenchman, added novelty to the manner of dying at Niagara. He walked out on a reef above the Goat Island bridge March 30, 1900, and fired his revolver in the air. Twice the report rang out, as if to attract attention, and then he was seen to place the pistol in his mouth. There was a report and the man tumbled into the water and was swept away over the falls. He was infatuated with Lillian Russell and for her had died.

Catarrh a Disease of The System.

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh
Wherever Located.

Catarrh is a systemic disease, curable only by a systematic treatment. A remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does. Peruna immediately invigorates the nerve centers which give vitality to the mucous membranes. Then catarrh disappears. Then catarrh is permanently cured.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Landlord—That's my name. I'm the chap.

Stranger—You don't say! Then you must have known a prim young school teacher, a Miss—

Landlord—Mister, before you say anything more I may as well tell you I married a prim young school teacher.

Stranger—Oh, I beg your pardon!

Landlord—What for, sir?

Stranger—Why—er—say, do you know what ever became of a young squirt named Chiggers, that clerked in Pummy's grocery store?

Landlord—I haven't thought of him for seventeen years. I don't know where he is now. Good deal of a numskull, wasn't he?

Stranger—He was—and he hasn't any more sense now than he had then. I'm Chiggers. Shall we call it a standoff?

BEN HUR,

The Greatest Spectacle of the Century, to Be Staged in Louisville.

Towering triumphantly as the most massive and picturesque as the most impressive dramatic spectacle in the history of the world, "Ben Hur" will seek new honors at Macauley's Theatre, Louisville, Ky., the week of March 20th. Never before in the history of Louisville amusements has an announcement of a theatrical production created such a sensation, for it means something new to the public to see a dramatic spectacle on the colossal scale of the present production. The scenic settings to be used are those which marked the World's Fair run in St. Louis this past summer and engagement at the big Chicago Auditorium. They were imported from the Drury Lane Theatre, London, for this season's tour of the play.

"Ben Hur" is a wonderful play. All who have seen it agree that nothing more beautiful, inspiring, spiritual and edifying than "The Healing of the Lepers," in the last act has ever been offered on the stage of the American theatre. At this point, this great play is most truly and in a very high sense "religious". Here the stage seems to have concentrated itself and all its resources to the service of Christianity, and there is nothing that is not reverent, beautiful and altogether fitting in its service. This scene and the widely advertised chariot race, in the act preceding it, are the great special features of the play which give it much of its wonderful value and extraordinary power.

If the American drama had done absolutely nothing worthy in its long career but this; had its fame to rest solely upon this one noble product of Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger, it has justified its existence; for in this at least, it has shown that the stage may be given over to uses wholly worthy, highly commendable and which cannot fail to exert the greatest possible blessing on mankind—that of bringing home with immense force and dignity, the eternal truth and verity of the birth into the world of Jesus, the Savior of mankind.

To every man, no matter what his conditions, "Ben Hur" has its appeal. It appeals to the deep-grained, firm-rooted religious feeling in the human heart and brings back with great directness, the simple lessons and divine truths that every man born in a Christian land learned at his mother's knees.

THERE is no reason why we should fear the future, but there is every reason why we should face it seriously, neither hiding from ourselves the gravity of the problems before us nor fearing to approach these problems with the unbending, unflinching purpose to solve them aright.—President Roosevelt in his inaugural address March 4, 1905.

A PETITION signed by 62 of the leading citizens of Hartford was filed in County Court Monday praying that an election be held in said town on the 9th day of May, 1905, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters thereof upon the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned in the city of Hartford. No order can be made calling the election until the next regular term of County Court, but at that time it will in all probability be called for May 9th. This question should appeal to every one who is interested in the welfare of Hartford and the surrounding community. Of all things that degrade there is nothing that equals the intemperate use of liquor. Each father should see to it that nothing is left undone to abolish the sale of the tempting beverage in our town.

THE inauguration of President Roosevelt has gone into history as a memorable one. The early reports from various parts indicated an unusually large attendance at the inauguration, but even then expectations were surpassed. A notable feature of the vast throng was the unusually large attendance from the South. This element, which a year ago regarded Roosevelt as an enemy, now regard him as a most enthusiastic friend, and their efforts to show their reciprocal feelings were demonstrated in many ways, and no opportunity was lost to assure the President of the enthusiastic welcome which he shall receive in his visit through the South in the early spring. The inaugural ceremonies were made the more enjoyable by the fine weather that blessed the occasion, and all together the great throng that crowded the Capital city went home indeed satisfied with their trip, and all felt that a great and good man had been installed as their chief executive.

CITIZENS throughout the State, regardless of politics, are holding indignation meetings condemning the disgraceful verdict rendered by a Louisville jury in the libel proceedings of Pat Sharkey, a saloon keeper assisted by thugs and toughs against R. W. Knott, editor of the Louisville Post. Mr. Knott, a brother of a former Governor of Kentucky, is a clean, conscientious scholarly gentleman and has always conducted his paper in such a manner as to gain the popular applause of all classes except the gambler, the murderer, the thief and the various other denominations of the "tough," and a jury's verdict to the effect that he has been guilty of criminal libel came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. It is proper and right that the citizens—the brawn and sinewy of Kentucky's manhood—should speak their disapproval of this seeming unjust verdict as nine-tenths of the newspapers throughout the State have done. The people of Ohio county have always been responsive in moral condemnation of conceded or apparent wrongs done humanity and they should as one voice speak their disapproval of the wrongs done them through their fellow citizen, Mr. R. W. Knott.

He is now in his heavenly home and is beckoning his loved ones to follow him.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on our records and be published in HARTFORD REPUBLICAN, Hartford Herald and Owensboro Inquirer and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

OTHER MATTERS.

Hon. R. A. Miller, Owensboro, has by agreement been selected special Judge to try the case of Ohio County Bank vs. F. L. Rone.

Belle Turnbull vs. George Turnbull, divorce refused for the present and action continued with recommending that parties affect a reconciliation and live together.

Linnie D. Leach vs. John W. Leach, same order as preceding case.

Life Guards.

The Life Guards are two regiments of cavalry forming parts of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements as colds, influenza, catarrh, the grip, and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a general warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the system the greater the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

Factories for Kentucky.

Mr. L. D. Sampson, a well-known Kentucky newspaper man, formerly proprietor of the Barbourville News and for some years engaged in the Newspaper Syndicate business in Chicago, is endeavoring to locate some large manufacturing concerns in Kentucky.

Through its newly organized Commercial Club, Georgetown has secured the large Asphalt concern with which Secretary Paul Morton and other Chicago men are connected. Mr. Sampson has just opened an office at 140 Dearborn street, Chicago, and has been commissioned by several large and well established concerns to find locations for new or branch factories. He desires to hear from Kentucky towns which offer natural advantages in the way of fuel, raw material, transportation facilities and equitable labor conditions.

Farmers! Farmers!

The preparation for spring seeding has begun to demand your attention. Plows, Harrows, Collars, Backbands, Traces, Hames and Bridles are now on sale in good reliable materials at the lowest possible prices. Owing to the death of R. H. Austin, who has been closely connected with us in the Implement business, we will have for sale Henry F. Blount's one and two horse steel Plows, Oliver's Chilled Breaking Plows, Superior Corn Drills and Disk Harrows, and there is no implement on the market that bears a better reputation for good service and perfect operation. Come to us and we will take great pleasure in showing to you the merits of these goods.

Fertilizers for the Spring Crops.

It is a pleasure to make our semi-annual announcement that we are distributors of the celebrated Horse Shoe Brands of Fertilizers for all crops, and the Homestead Tobacco Grower, the highest grade of Tobacco Fertilizers on the market. The Homestead Tobacco Grower is not only good for tobacco, but produces the most satisfactory results on all crops. Use it on all garden products, also Cabbage and Potatoes, and the results will encourage you to its further use.

ROWE & MORTON, Centertown, Ky.,

Will also carry these goods in stock at their warehouses, and hereafter will be the sole distributors of these brands of Fertilizers in their immediate territory.

Fair's Spring News.

Now that our winter stock has been sufficiently reduced, we turn our special attention to spring. For thirty days now we have been carefully gathering what information we could about Spring Fabrics. We do this in order that we may give you an intelligent answer as to what will be worn. The results are as follows:

Woolen Dress Goods.

The ever-popular shirt waist suits will be in the lead. We find that the material used will be Mohair lustrous, Sicilians, Panama cloths, and lightweight Broadcloths. We have our entire new spring line of these goods READY NOW for you. If it's a new suit for Easter, you would do well to consult us at once. Samples sent on request.

Spring Silks.

There is no doubt but that Silks will be a favorite for both Suits and Shirt Waists. Plain and fancy Taffetas of a chiffon effect will be those most sought after. We have our line of these goods now ready to show you. We would be glad to have you call or write for samples. We call your special attention to two good values in Taffetas—a 75c quality, 19 inches wide for 59c and 69c.

Muslin Underwear.

We have recently added a line of ready-made Muslin Underwear, such as Corset Covers, Skirts, Chemise, Drawers, etc., made of select quality of bleached muslin, handsomely trimmed with insertion and embroidery. Not the narrow Skirts, but cut full. Worthwhile, dependable goods. Get our prices.

Spring Gingham and Percales.

Beyond question the prettiest line we have ever shown. Do your spring sewing now, before the weather gets warm. 50 pieces new Waist styles Gingham—regular price 12½c—for 10c. Fifteen pieces 36-inch late pattern Percales at 12½c. Besides these we are showing other desirable Spring Goods that should appeal to your immediate attention.

Ben Hur in Louisville.

Arrayed in all its splendor, "Ben Hur" will inaugurate a week's engagement at Macauley's Theatre, Louisville on Monday evening, March 20th. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Of all the spectacular productions of modern times, none has been credited with so long a run of prosperity as this great and popular dramatic romance. "Ben Hur" is to-day crowned with a record of nearly 1,700 performances in a little over five years, and has been seen by more than three and a half million people. In all this period of marked prosperity a Sunday performance has never been given. No play in the history of the stage world admits of the massive scenic setting that "Ben Hur" does.

Reviewing "Ben Hur" as a play, it is one of the most stirring and impressive stories ever given to the stage, and while the keenest admiration and astonishment have been manifested for the marvelous scenic and mechanical effects that are unfolded in its enactment, the impression that lasts and lives, and that has been responsible for the wonderful success scored, is the beautiful, fervent and highly dramatic story, so forcibly and truthfully told with its endowment of grand music supplied by Edgar Stillman Kelley.

The advance sale of seats opens Thursday morning, March 16th, at nine o'clock. Manager John Macauley, of Macauley's Theatre, announces that all out-of-town orders, if accompanied by cash or money order, will be filled before the regular box office sale opens. During the engagement of "Ben Hur" in Louisville all railroads entering the city will make special excursion rates.

Notice

To the members of Farmer's union, district No. 25. The union will meet at 2 p. m. Saturday, before the second session in March, with the following program:

 - 2nd. Shall we continue our present organization or unite with other?—by M. Stater.
 - 3rd. Shall we continue to purchase commercial fertilizer? If so, from whom?—by C. W. Stevens and T. R. Black.
 - 4th. Shall we limit the acreage of tobacco?—by Warren Taylor.
- All are invited, and asked to participate. Meet at 2:00 p. m. S. L. STEVENS.

HUGE FERRY BOAT.

The Largest in the World, Can Carry a Whole Load—ed Train.

[Philadelphia Record.]

What is beyond doubt the largest ferry boat in the world is owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and is used in transferring trains across Carquinoz Strait, in Contra Costa county, California, between Benicia and Port Costa.

This colossal craft is christened the Solano. The boat is not only large in dimensions, but also in power. The Solano has a net tonnage of 3,057 tons, is 430 feet long, 116 feet wide and has a mean draught of 15 feet. Her two engines have a combined strength of 2,000 horse power. This ferry boat is longer than most of the great battle ships of the United States or other navies.

The Solano transfers, on an average, 10,000 trains a year—that is, all sorts of trains. Often the boat carries 40 large heavily-loaded freight cars at one trip. Not less than 14 trains are hauled each day. The boat has made as high as 42 trips during the 24 hours. The Solano has four smokestacks and steel boilers. The two engines work entirely independent—one to each paddle wheel. This monster craft is constantly on duty—day and night. At the crossing point Carquinoz Strait is about a mile wide and it requires from 11 to 13 minutes to make a trip each way—from slip to slip. On an average about 30 trips per day are made. So systematically and swiftly are the trips scheduled that there is very little, if any, delay to the many trains. Thousands of passengers traveling each way are transferred every day.

Pointed Paragraphs.

A busy miller's life is one continuous grind.

Revenge is a gun that kicks much harder than it shoots.

Politeness is the freezing point in the atmosphere of love.

Men make themselves ridiculous by claiming to be what they are not.

Nothing worries a proud woman like the pride of another woman.

Illusions of courtship are more pleasing than the delusions of matrimony.

A woman doesn't enjoy good health unless she has a few ailments to complain of.

Of course you are all right, but your next-door neighbor needs a lot of reforming.

A woman's idea of economy is to buy a lot of things she has no use for because they are cheap.

There are many alleged hair restorers, but the youth who returns a lock of his best girl's tresses is the only real one.

There must be some mistake about a man being made out of dust, for dust settles some time, but some men never settle.

If you don't believe this is a cold and unsympathetic world hunt up your friends.

After a girl has celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of her birth she stops seeking her ideal husband and begins to look around for a real one.

Right Kind of Farmer.

There is a farmer over in Missouri who is a mighty staunch friend of the local paper. At a recent farmers' institute he read a paper, in the course of which he took occasion to remark: "As a rule the farmer knows no firmer friend than the country press. The home paper is distinctly the farmer's own paper, supported directly or indirectly by the farmers, who compose the backbone of the printer's subscription list and largely for what the enterprising merchant advertises. Now, brothers, let us not forget our friends. Let us see that our subscriptions are paid before the first of January and a year in advance if we can afford it. The man or the paper that fights my battles shall have my support. Again, the merchants who advertise are the ones who make it possible for us to get a good local paper and the men or firms who are too penurious to advertise and help support the local press, have no right to the farmers' patronage."

Attacked By a Mob

And beaten, in a labor riot, until covered by sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch, of Tecumseh, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro's. drug store, Hartford.

For Boys.

One of our great American leaders says a boy should learn—
To let cigarettes alone.
To be kind to all animals.
To be manly and courageous.
To ride, row, shoot and swim.
To build a fence scientifically.
To fill the wood box every night.
To be gentle to his sisters.
To shut a door without slamming.
To sew on a button.
To do errands promptly and cheerfully.
To have a dog and to make a companion of him.
To get ready to go away without the united efforts of mother, grandmother, sisters, chambermaid and cook.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennington, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated, with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Z. Life as It Really Is.

The man of grand impulses sheds a luster on all around him.

When a woman says she is of little consequence she does not expect she will be taken at her word.

A man usually estimates his value according to a scale of his own making.

Men speak of women's vanity as something which is part of every woman's make-up.

The kiss of love lingers long in the memory of a woman.

When a man undertakes to prove his importance he is inclined to overstep the mark.

Every woman feels she knows just how far to go in the matter of assisting nature with her face and figure.

Many commanding men are easily controlled by those who seem to be other than commanding.

The woman who thinks she can manage her husband's affairs never makes known how she would do it.

A man of many troubles has the satisfaction of knowing something comes his way.

Topic Tips.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

Broderie anglaise appears on the new parasols.

French cravats of white kid, embroidered in colors, are new.

Sunshades of heavy linen bid fair to be popular with the summer girl.

Elastic belts covered with velvet are about the closest fitting to be had.

Those little French powder books, filled with fresh-tinted powder papers, are handy for the woman who travels.

Now is the time to pick up a smart raincoat at a bargain for wear on the inevitable rainy spring days.

Deep circular collars and cuffs of knife-pleated lawn are modish, and launder well.

The color of iron rust, or what the French call "chaudron," is particularly good in taffeta with cream lace.

Blouses of dark silk with round yokes covered with frills of white valenciennes look well with the coat suit.

If one wants a furlined evening coat this is the time to get it, those with squirrel lining being at a special discount.

The girl who wants to look natty in the spring will get herself together a white coat and skirt suit, either cloth or corduroy.

A purse or bag to match every gown is the rule, and one gets a good deal of leather for the money, too, for the modern pocketbook is almost the size of a man's wallet.

By the Tonic Route.

The pills that act as a tonic, and not as a drastic purge, are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Needle's Long Journey.

[New York Herald.]

One of the most peculiar cases in the annals of surgery is puzzling physicians of Flushing. Sixteen years ago John H. Beyer, a well-to-do baker of that place, stepped on a darning needle which was imbedded in his left foot and caused intense pain. In endeavoring to extract the steel point a surgeon broke the needle and a portion of it remained in the foot.

A week ago Beyer fell upon an icy sidewalk, injuring his side and bruising his left hand. The injured hand commenced to swell and the baker suffered excruciating pain. Physicians discovered a hard substance in the center of the swelling, and a deep incision was made in the hand. The physician then discovered a piece of a steel needle about an inch and a half in length. Physicians agreed that it is probable that the broken needle taken from Beyer's hand is part of the one imbedded in his foot 16 years ago.

THE BEAUTY CHASE.

Some of the Things Society Women Do Or Have Done.

They take milk baths.
They bathe their faces daily in real sweet cream.

They have their entire faces skinned, so that a new skin may grow over the old surface.

They have their noses shaped.
They shave their eyebrows into a perfect arch.

They have their lips shaped into a cupid's bow.

They have all nature's fine hairs removed from the skin by electrolysis.

They have real dimples cut in their cheeks and chins.

They have good, strong crooked teeth removed and artificial straight ones screwed onto the stumps.

They go into complete retirement for six months at a time, are "done over," and emerge perfect beauties.

They have artificial figures built in their frocks and artificial insteps made in their slippers.

But it is not all wasted time. Never has the world need so crowded with beautiful women! Never have there been so many unbecomely women who have produced the illusion of beauty.

Matrimony.

Harry McCarty, of the Jessamine Journal, who is a benedict and ought to know whereof he speaks, says of matrimony:

In marrying, if the average young man will select for his wife a companion who can go into the kitchen and turn a batter-cake, or wring off the head of a chicken, or milk a cow in case of necessity, his life will be one of sunshine and happiness. Boys, unless you have a large bank account and a big income, don't tie yourself to one of these up-to-date girls who sings for you in the parlor while her mother perhaps is making new dresses for the daughter. Such a wife would be as a millstone tied about the neck of a man with a small income.

FRIDAY, MARCH 10.

WORE LIFE-SAVER

Did Man Who Was Hanged in Virginia Years Ago.

Baxter Pate, Law's Victim, Declared to be Alive and the Owner of Rich Mine.

Gate City Va., March 8.—For nearly half a century the people of south-east Virginia believed that Baxter Pate, alias McDaniel Rhea, paid the penalty for the murder of John Littrell, one of his most intimate young men friends, and Pate was hanged on a gallows erected in the hollow of the mountains southwest of Gate City, in Scott county, Va.

The murder was committed in a room of the Central hotel forty-seven years ago. Pate and Littrell played cards and Littrell won all of Pate's money, amounting to $750. Pate implored Littrell to return part of the money, alleging that he had secured it unfairly. Littrell refused, and in the fight which followed Littrell was killed.

Pate escaped to North Carolina, his former home, but after a few months he was secured and brought back, and was tried, convicted and executed under the name of Daniel Rhea. Soon after the execution it was learned that his real name was Baxter Pate.

Pate's body, immediately after the execution, was turned over to his two brothers, who departed with it to his home in North Carolina. Now comes a strange and very remarkable story in connection with the affair, related by Elys Lawton, who was born thirty-five years ago near Gate City but who moved to Colorado about twenty years ago. He claims that Baxter Pate still lives and is a rich mine owner in Colorado. He says that he has been in the employ of Pate for the past ten years. He says, too, that before going to Colorado he had often heard of the Littrell murder, but that he had always understood that the murderer of Littrell was McDaniel Rhea.

Lawton arrived in Scott county, his former home, only a few days ago, and was discussing the Littrell tragedy with some friends when some one of them spoke of the murderer as Baxter Pate, a name answered to by his Western employer. Lawton then, he says, recalled the fact that Pate had once confided to him that when a young man he had killed one of his friends over a card game. He also remembered that Pate had told him all particulars regarding the murder except the place where it was committed, and also how cleverly he had managed to evade justice.

Pate, according to Lawton, said that his brother had manufactured for him a small steel frame which was secretly conveyed to his cell a few days before he was to be executed. It was worn under his clothing the day he was supposed to be executed and contained hooks which fitted to his clothing at the collar and was attached to bands around his body. The hooks, he said caught the rope just in time to prevent his neck from being broken.

Simulating death he was immediately placed in a coffin by his brothers, who started with it to their home in another State. When going through the mountain, about twenty miles from the scene of the execution, he was released from his coffin and made his escape into the mountain wilderness.

As if in substantiation of the story told by Lawton is the fact that the jailer who executed Pate in a dying statement, said that Pate still lived, and further, the doctor who pronounced Pate dead soon after the execution disappeared. If true, this would indicate that they both were bribed by Pate's rich brother and were connected with the sham execution.

NOCREEK.

March 8.—There has been a number of cases of la grippe in the community but most all are convalescent at present.

Wayne Pirtle and family have moved into their new house.

W. R. Stevens with his family has moved into the property of W. F. Stevens, purchased of Wayne Pirtle.

Mrs. James Tanner, of Owensboro, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Moreland, this week.

Simpson Johnson, of Scott county, has purchased 150 acres of land known as Ellen Barnett property of Mr. Rowan Holbrook and father. Consideration $3,000.

We learn that Miss Belva McCormick, who is visiting her sister in Illinois, has measles.

Mr. Hill and family, who are living in the property Mr. Johnson purchased, will move back to Centertown.

Bud Tanner went to Livermore Saturday.

Fleetwood Ward is expected home this week from a prospective trip to Bicknell, Ind.

Messrs. Stevens and Chamberlain have returned from Livermore, where they delivered a raft of logs.

The Nocreek Local No. 1, A. S. of E., met Saturday night. Whether or not to limit the acreage was discussed. Delegates were elected to attend the County Union, which meets at Fordsville Saturday. They were instructed to vote against limiting the acreage. But had there been a full attendance the motion would have carried and the limit would have been 10,000 hills to the hand. It is believed by many that Ohio county will limit her acreage at the county Union Saturday.

Miss Edith Carson attended church here Sunday.

John Cantrill is on the sick list. Mrs. Sarilda Stevens is quite sick. Rev. J. W. Cantrill spent last night in Hartford, the guest of Col. C. M. Barnett and family.

Simpson Johnson, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. David Moreland, has returned to Scott county.

OAK GROVE.

March 8.—The health of this community is very good.

Prof. J. E. Davidson's school is progressing nicely.

Johnnie Keown has just recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia. G. C. Hocker has returned to school after a few days' illness.

C. D. Barnes has moved his place of business from C. D. Wallace's to N. C. Keown's.

Ezra Shultz, of Prentiss, gave our school a pleasant call Saturday.

G. C. Hocker, of Vine Grove, spent Tuesday night with J. N. Jarnagin, Flint Springs.

Trall and Tuell Rogers were on the sick list the first of the week.

The candy breaking at T. C. Johnson's last Friday night was largely attended.

C. L. Stevens, of Vine Grove, is up again after a few days' illness.

TWIN BABIES.

One is Born in February and the Other is Born in March.

The stork which visited Pinkney Clapp's home at Nabb, Ind., recently played an unusual prank. He left a little cherub in the arms of Mrs. Clapp, departed immediately, but returning in March, stated he had made a mistake, and left another healthy infant with Mrs. Clapp. Although one was born a month earlier than the other, the little ones are twins. It is an unusual situation although the stork's explanation was satisfactory to the parents, who have received the congratulations of their neighbors.

One of the most unique features of the case is that one of them will celebrate its birthday February 28, the other March 1, and every four years there will be a day's longer interval between their birthdays than during the preceding three years.

Though born one in February and the other in March, there was only a few minutes difference between the advent of the first and the last babe into the world. They will wear the same bib and tucker, ride in the same cart, wear the same sailor hat, have equal capacity for keeping their parents awake when suffering with colic, teething, etc., and cause the same parental anxiety when either of them fails to come home to dinner without first explaining to its mother and father.

And when they have become old enough to be taken out, both will be subject to the same smothering kisses of old maids and young maids, while old ladies will remark in passing: "They look as much alike as two peas in a pod," regardless of the fact that one came into the world a month later than the other. There will be the usual pranks played by twins, the usual mistake of one being reprimanded for the conduct of the other, and all the troubles incident to a fellow coming into the world about the same time as "the other fellow."

The twins are healthy, and babes and mother are doing nicely, according to reports.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. There is no drying or sneezing. The Liquid Cream Balm is adapted to use by patients who have trouble in inhaling through the nose and prefer spraying. The price, including spraying tube, is 75c. Sold by druggists, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren St., New York.

At Rest.

At 10:30 o'clock Saturday evening, Feb. 25, after a month's illness, in which she battled like a hero, aunt Relda Bishop surrendered her life. "It was so sudden, our white lips said, How we'll miss her, the beautiful dead."

Who'll take the place of the precious one fled?
But God knows best."

It is true that man is prone to pass undue encomiums upon the dead, but no word of praise can be so high as not to be spoken of Aunt Rilda, no laurel too pure to be placed upon her brow, for she was pure, gentle and good. We ever found her making home happy and peaceful, noble in all the attributes that go to make up a beautiful womanhood.

The two youngest boys, Chester and Oscar, were absent, living in different counties. Death was so sudden they could not be called in time for the last farewell, and O! how sad to those who heard the call in her low gentle voice for "my boys." How our hearts went out in sympathy with Chester, the youngest, when he came home the day after the funeral and found the home empty—mother gone.

Is it any wonder that our hearts are filled with sorrow when we think of all this? How she longed to speak one more word to the absent boys. What that word was, none but God can ever know. Her sisters also were unavoidably absent.

Her friends were numbered by her acquaintances, and many were with her when she died, but the struggle was short, while the husband knelt by her bed in the last handclasp, muttering words in prayer for help in that, his only great sorrow. Uncle John, God has always been your rock, your "shelter in the time of a storm." Let Him be so now, for yours is the hardest part to bear.

Her remains were accompanied to Central Grove church by many sorrowing friends, and when you saw the beautiful tribute of respect paid by the vast crowd at the church, you could measure her worth.

Free from life's toils and fitful fever she sleeps. We would not call her back. In the home above she is great and happy, and shadows come across her pathway no more. She did the work assigned for her to do, and when death came hovering o'er her couch she was ready to give up life's voyage on earth, fold the snow white sails, lean sweetly on Jesus, trusting in His merits, and e'en would I say: "Weep not for her; in springtime she flew."

To that land where the wings of the soul are unfurled, And now, like a star beyond evening's cold dew, Looks radiantly down on the tears of this world."
